Assignment: UVs – Emma Brown

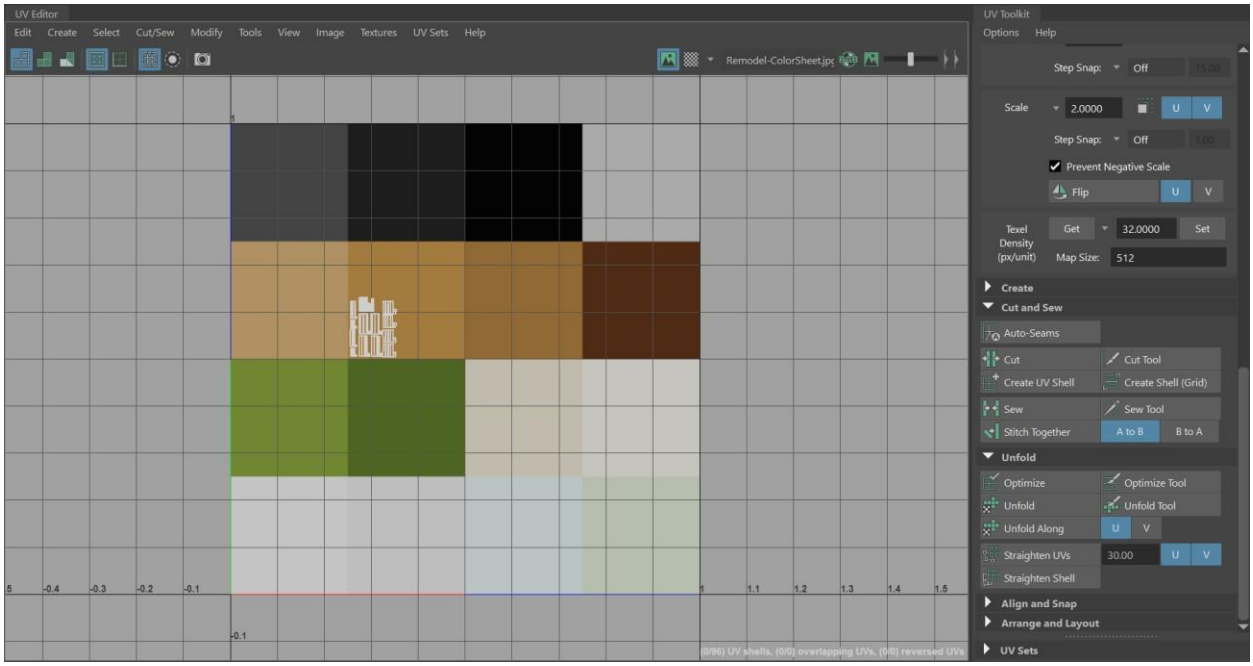

Repo:

Ah, UVs. Really, I don't mind doing UVs, it's just very time consuming. This project wasn't too bad to unwrap since it's so simple, one thing I realized that I had never noticed before was how much easier it is to unwrap an object that has been beveled with an even number of segments like we talked about in class. I used Create Automatic for anything that was square and had even bevel segments, for everything else I used Cut and Unfold.

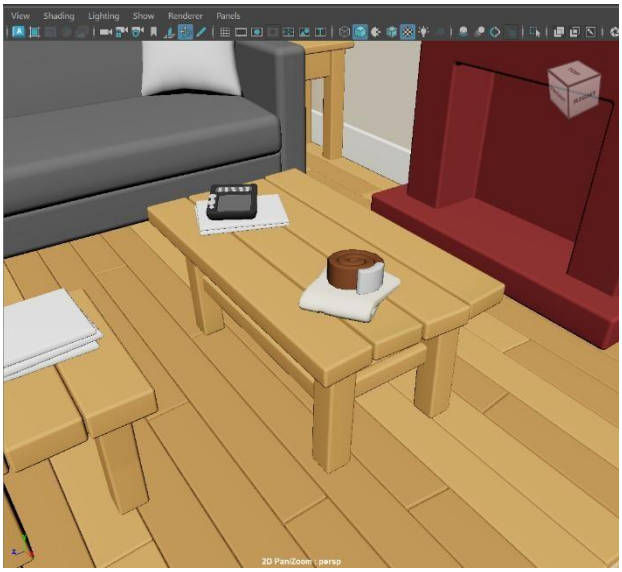

I think the thing that I start to mind about UVs is when I have to unwrap the same object (duplicated or similar) over, and over again. The most annoying thing to unwrap was the floorboards, I used create automatic, but it still took a while.
