I tried a couple of different moods, I think my favorite overall lighting setups are the night and main. The thing I am still the most uncertain about is the background, I used a Skydome to color and slightly light the scene. I tried to use an HDRI but it was too noisy and didn't match the composition of the scene. Before I started my scene I did a little research on isometric rooms and I found that my favorite ones always had a window with strong light rays which played a big part in how I designed the room. For the light rays I used a spotlight and an aiVolume.
